APPEAL

I appeal against the 28 day suspension of my driver licence on the following ground(s):

- (1) I was not the driver of the vehicle at the time of the act or omission that led to my driver licence being suspended; or
- (2) The enforcement officer who suspended my driver licence did not have reasonable grounds of belief that:
 - (a) I had previous relevant convictions within the last 4 years, and:
 - (i) my breath alcohol concentration exceeded 400 micrograms of alcohol per litre of breath; or
 - (ii) my blood alcohol concentration exceeded 80 milligrams of alcohol 100 per millilitres of blood.
 - (b) I had no relevant convictions in the last 4 years, and:
 - (i) my breath alcohol concentration exceeded 650 micrograms of alcohol per litre of breath; or
 - (ii) my blood alcohol concentration exceeded 130 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood.
 - (c) (i) I drove a motor vehicle on a road at a speed exceeding the applicable permanent posted speed limit by more than 40km an hour;

or

 (ii) I drove a motor vehicle on a road at a speed exceeding any other speed limit by 50km an hour.
 - (d) I failed or refused to undergo a blood test after being requested to do so.
- (3) The enforcement officer did not give a notice that complied with the requirements of s 95(2) of the Land Transport Act 1998.
