
Registration plate numbers of vehicles where drawbeam certifications have been revoked, 3 May 2018

The following vehicles' drawbeams require recertification. The NZ Transport Agency has revoked the Peter Wastney Engineering Limited certification as reviews show they do not meet the Heavy Vehicle Towing Standard (NZS 5446).

- A drawbeam is fitted to a heavy vehicle (e.g. a truck) and is used to tow a heavy trailer. A heavy vehicle, which includes trailers, is one with a Gross Vehicle Mass (GVM) exceeding 3,500kg.
- A towbar is fitted to a heavy vehicle (truck, bus, campervan etc) and is used to tow a light vehicle (usually a trailer but may be another light vehicle such as a car). A light vehicle is one with a GVM no greater than 3,500kg.
- A drawbar is fitted to a heavy trailer with a GVM exceeding 3,500kg.

If you have any questions about what to do next if a vehicle you own is listed here, please go to www.nzta.govt.nz/pwe-revocation for answers. If you have further questions, please email info@nzta.govt.nz with Peter Wastney Engineering Limited and your vehicle's registration plate number in the subject line.
