We're now one step closer towards beginning construction on one of Auckland's major transport projects after applications have been lodged with the Environmental Protection Authority (EPA) December 2016 in relation to the North Corridor Improvement project.

This is a milestone for the project team who have been completing applications and preparing for the decision process under the National Environmental Policy (NEP) for more than two years. The NEP was introduced in 2013 and sets out the national environmental principles that are used to guide the consent process for major transport projects of national significance and decides if it should be referred to a Board of Inquiry or referred to the local authority for consideration. The appropriate submission, evidence and hearing process will then proceed.

In the event that a BOI takes place, submitting a written submission:• Making a written submission and speaking at the hearing. Submitters can select the submission of their choice. The decision is made to the satisfaction of the Minister, who will communicate this decision to the local authority along with their recommendation.

Applications lodged and concept design complete for the Northern Corridor Improvements Project

The Northern Corridor Improvements include the biggest infrastructure project Auckland Transport has undertaken. The project is being undertaken in two stages: Stage 1 will deliver a new motorway, heading north and west, from the Central Motorway (SH1) and Upper Harbour Highway (SH18). This is a milestone for the project team who have been completing applications and preparing for the decision process under the National Environmental Policy (NEP) for more than two years. The NEP was introduced in 2013 and sets out the national environmental principles that are used to guide the consent process for major transport projects of national significance and decides if it should be referred to a Board of Inquiry or referred to the local authority for consideration. The appropriate submission, evidence and hearing process will then proceed.

Applications lodged and concept design complete for the Northern Corridor Improvements Project

We're now one step closer towards beginning construction on one of Auckland's major transport projects after applications have been lodged with the Environmental Protection Authority (EPA) December 2016 in relation to the North Corridor Improvement project.

This is a milestone for the project team who have been completing applications and preparing for the decision process under the National Environmental Policy (NEP) for more than two years. The NEP was introduced in 2013 and sets out the national environmental principles that are used to guide the consent process for major transport projects of national significance and decides if it should be referred to a Board of Inquiry or referred to the local authority for consideration. The appropriate submission, evidence and hearing process will then proceed.

In the event that a BOI takes place, submitting a written submission:• Making a written submission and speaking at the hearing. Submitters can select the submission of their choice. The decision is made to the satisfaction of the Minister, who will communicate this decision to the local authority along with their recommendation.

Applications lodged and concept design complete for the Northern Corridor Improvements Project

We're now one step closer towards beginning construction on one of Auckland's major transport projects after applications have been lodged with the Environmental Protection Authority (EPA) December 2016 in relation to the North Corridor Improvement project.

This is a milestone for the project team who have been completing applications and preparing for the decision process under the National Environmental Policy (NEP) for more than two years. The NEP was introduced in 2013 and sets out the national environmental principles that are used to guide the consent process for major transport projects of national significance and decides if it should be referred to a Board of Inquiry or referred to the local authority for consideration. The appropriate submission, evidence and hearing process will then proceed.

In the event that a BOI takes place, submitting a written submission:• Making a written submission and speaking at the hearing. Submitters can select the submission of their choice. The decision is made to the satisfaction of the Minister, who will communicate this decision to the local authority along with their recommendation.

Applications lodged and concept design complete for the Northern Corridor Improvements Project

We're now one step closer towards beginning construction on one of Auckland's major transport projects after applications have been lodged with the Environmental Protection Authority (EPA) December 2016 in relation to the North Corridor Improvement project.

This is a milestone for the project team who have been completing applications and preparing for the decision process under the National Environmental Policy (NEP) for more than two years. The NEP was introduced in 2013 and sets out the national environmental principles that are used to guide the consent process for major transport projects of national significance and decides if it should be referred to a Board of Inquiry or referred to the local authority for consideration. The appropriate submission, evidence and hearing process will then proceed.

In the event that a BOI takes place, submitting a written submission:• Making a written submission and speaking at the hearing. Submitters can select the submission of their choice. The decision is made to the satisfaction of the Minister, who will communicate this decision to the local authority along with their recommendation.